

Call for Papers

Vienna Workshop on Social Choice and Fairness: Connecting Theory, Experiments and Applications

The Vienna Workshop on Social Choice and Fairness is a one-day workshop with the goal of connecting theoretical, experimental and applied work on normative questions in the field of economics. The workshop will take place on March 11, 2024 in Vienna at the building of the University of Vienna's Economics Department (Oskar-Morgenstern Platz 1, 1020 Vienna).

Invited speakers are:

- Sandro Ambuehl (University of Zurich)
- Florian Brandl (University of Bonn)
- Hervé Moulin (University of Glasgow)

If you want to present, please submit your paper to viennasocialchoice@gmail.com until December 20, 2023. Authors of accepted papers will be notified by January 5, 2024. If you want to attend without presenting, please let us know until February 19, 2024 so we can plan ahead. There are no registration fees. We invite submissions from all related fields and hope to attract presentations from a wide range of topics and methodologies. Below is a non-exhaustive list of relevant topics.

- Social Choice
- Fairness, Justice and Equity
- Welfare and Individual Well-being
- Altruism and Prosocial Behaviour
- Aggregation of Preferences and Beliefs
- Collective Decision Making
- Fair Division
- Bargaining
- Mechanism Design and Implementation
- Voting and Elections

The workshop is funded in part by the Anniversary Fund of the Austrian National Bank (OeNB), project number 18719.

For further information, visit <https://sites.google.com/view/viennasocialchoice2024>.

We hope to see you at the workshop,

The Organizers

Philipp Peitler and Karl Schlag